BALL GAME

Between Doctors and Druggists This Afternoon.

Everything is in readiness for the great game this afternoon, when the Doctors meet the Druggists at League
Park for the benefit of the Health League Auto Fund.

Manager Dorn of the Druggists, has his team in the pink of condition, and with the mystery who is going to twirl for his team, feels confident that it is only a question of how much the score will be. On the other hand, Manager Quigley of the Doctors, is just as confident and the Doctors have been working hard. They are also in the best of condition and claim that they have their eyes on the ball.

It seems certain that whichever team wins, the public has a good game in store for it, and in view of the worthy cause to which the gate receipts are to be donated, it is to be hoped that the teams will play to standing room only.

Following is the way the teams will line up at the opening of the game:

Doctors.

C. McGuire, catcher.
P. Smoot, first base.
L. Langhlin, second base.
Quigley, short stop.
Tambise, third base.
Yazel, right field.
Taylor, center field.
Hall or W. Hord, pitcher.
Clarkson, catcher.

Druggists.

Williams, center field.
Willett, second base.
Willis, third base.
Klusler, first base.
Wood, left field.
Dorn, right field.
Hefferly, short stop.
Hockaday and Chambers, pitchers.
Jacobs, catcher.
Pecor, Johnston and Ross, utility.

FREEMAN-NASH.

Friends and relatives here have received invitations to the marriage of Miss Verna Freeman, of Chicago, Ill., and Mr. R. C. Nash, of Maysville, the wedding to take place in Chicago, on July 3. Mr. Nash is one of Mays-ville's coming young business men and Miss Freeman is quite well known here, having visited in Maysville upon several occasions. The Ledger joins the many friends of the young couple in best wishes for all happiness and success.

J. Robert Curry has accepted a position with the Kresge's 5 and 10 cent stores in Newark, O.

WATER CIRCUS IS SPLENDID ENTERTAINMENT

Spectators Spellbound At Many Interesting and Daring Feats.

The Rice & Dore Water Circus arrived Tuesday and gave two of the most interesting performances ever seen in Maysville.

Many scientific points in swimming and diving are demonstrated by experts, including many young ladies and mermaids, in a manner which at once captivates the spectators and afforda invaluable instruction to those who go about the water.

Early in the performance Neptune appears and bids his daughters, represented by a bevy of mermaids, to accompany him to his abode beneath the waves. His entreaties prove irresistable and the young ladies descend to the depths of the sea, remaining submerged many minutes.
This feature of the novel entertainment remains a mystery to all who saw it, and in itself is sufficient to place this circus in a class by itself.

A life-saving demonstration by Mabel Smith and Victoria Wolf, showing first on the edge of the tank, the various methods of approaching a drowning person, and then giving an actual demonstration in the water of a realistic rescue is a feature of great educational value.

The water basketball game between a team of young ladies and a team of men swimmers was intensely interesting and exciting and kept the attention of every one from the word go until the girls finally won by securing two goals to one by the men.

The log-rolling contest was unique and the De Wolfe brothers are entitled to much credit for the manner in which they walk the log and roll it about the water, retaining their equilibrium and finally when they both walk the log at the same time in an effort to throw each other off, the spectators are again held at strict attention.

The trapeze divers executed many difficult feats with an ease and grace which captivated every one and stamp
these performers as among the leaders in their line.

The high divers from the 102-foot ladder were thrilling sights worthy of highest praise and brought to a close one of the best performances ever seen in this locality, which with its many interesting and instructive features, had been kept lively and amusing by the water clowns, who are unsurpassed in the fun line.

Altogether, Rice & Dore, in their water circus have a show which is more than creditable, any feature of which is alone worth the price of admission.

The Woman's Missionary Society
of the First M. E. church, South, will meet at 3:30 instead of 2:30 this afternoon, on account of the exercises at the High School.

MAJOR THOMAS J. CHENOWETH IS DEAD

Honored Citizen Passes Away At Early Hour This Morning
After Long Illness.

Major Thomas J. Chenoweth died this morning at 4:55 o'clock, at his residence on Sutton street, after an illness of several years' duration.

Major Chenoweth was born April 16, 1834, at Harrodsburg, Ky., and has been a life-long resident of his native state, except for a short time spent in Philadelphia at school and in business in St. Louis, Mo., and New Orleans, La. He received his education in the Kentucky schools and lived to be a great credit to his parents and preceptors.

At the outbreak of the Civil War,
Mr. Chenoweth enlisted with the cause of the Confederacy and served with honor and distinction throughout the war, being promoted to the rank of Major in recognition of faithful service and as a reward for many acts of bravery. He was at one time captured by the Union forces, but the Confederate leaders, recognizing his real value to the cause, placed his name among the first for exchange and he was soon returned to his regiment.
Major Chenoweth was the envoy who conducted the negotiations leading up to Morgan's surrender and at all times gave himself unselfishly and wholeheartedly to that cause he loved so well, rendering that service which makes his name honored among those whom Fate denied victory, but crowned with a glorious immortality.

Major Chenoweth studied pharmacy
at the Philadelphia School of Pharmacy and after graduating with honor, conducted a drug store in that city for a short time. He then moved to St.
Louis, Mo., and New Orleans, La., spending a comparatively short time in each place, after which he moved to Maysville and opened a drug store
at the corner of Second and Sutton streets and remained in the same location for about forty years.

Major Chenoweth was a member of the vestry of the Episcopal church and was a regular attendant until ill health confined him to his home. He was a member of Ringgold Lodge No.
27, and Pisgah Encampment No. 3, I.
O. O. F., and his fellowa learned that his demise was to be sought and that he was ever the friend in need.

The deceased was a splendid character, lovable and kind, always thoughtful of others and his many acts of unheralded charity and kindness will live long as an honor to the name of him whose passing is a shock to this community and an irreparable loss to a host of friends.

Major Chenoweth is survived by his wife, who was Miss Mary Eliza Pearce
before her marriage, one son, Uiram P. Chenoweth, of California, who was on a visit to his father at the time of his death; two brothers, William J.
Chenoweth, of Decatur, Ill., and Henry
P. Chenoweth, of Birmingham, Ala., and one sister, Mrs. Victor Gilman,
of St. Paul, Minn.

Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made and will be announced later.

SOCIETY NEWS.

The members of the Sophomore Class of the Maysville High School gave a supper to the Class of 1915 on the good ship Buceaneer Tuesday afternoon. About sixty were present and after indulging in games and music, sat down to a spread that was fit for a king. The menu was as follows:

Sauddiches	Salad
Pickles	Olives
Strawberry Cordial	Wafers
Ice Cream	Cakes
Cigars	Mints

At a late hour the Seniors departed for their homes, declaring the Sophomores royal hosts.

AMAZONS ARRESTED.

Tuesday evening Officer Walsh, of the Police Department, arrested Mary Lewis and Julia Green on the charge of disorderly conduct. These two ladies of color were having a pitched battle when the officer arrived, the cause of the combat, it is said, being that Miss Lewis was trying to corner
the affections of Mrs. Green's husband.

The case will be given an airing in Police Court this afternoon.

SMALL BLAZE.

Tuesday evening about 8 o'clock Fire Company No. 1 answered an alarm from box 64. The fire was in the house occupied by Mr. Fred Arn, of East Third street. The blaze, of unknown origin, was discovered by Mrs. Lydia Kelly, who resides near by.
Chief Newell and his laddies soon extinguished the blaze with a small loss.

In making the run "Kinney Mac" punctured the rear left tire. This is the first puncture that the engine has had since its installation several years ago. The tire was replaced by another and the "Kinney" came back to its quarters.

FINDS HIDDEN TREASURE.

Several days ago, Mr. James Evans, while at work on the foundation of the new Model Laundry building, on East Second street, dug up an iron pot containing gold and silver coins amounting to $208. The coins were of ancient mintage and the premiums will amount to much more than their local value.

Drug stores will be closed this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock on account of the ball game between the Druggists and Doctors for the benefit of the Health League Auto Fund.

The low prices give absolutely no conception of the daintiness of these pretty dresses of soft chiffon, lace and net.

Vudor Reinforced Porch Shades

Vudor shades, cost little, last many seasons, beautify a house and make your porch cool, airy and as secluded as a mountain hungalow. There are extra advantages in buying

They are thin, strong wooden strips, laced-together with non-rotting twine, and indelibly stained in soft colors to match your home. Special double warps at both edges. Every Vudor Shade is equipped with a Vudor Safety Wind Device which does not have to be hooked or unhooked each time you roll the shade and being entirely independent of the shade puts all the wind pressure on the porch itself.

Don't wait to come to the store, just telephone 141 now and let our salesman call on you and demonstrate how easily and for how little expense you can add another room to your house for hot weather comfort.

OPPORTUNITY.

Frequently you will hear some man, who has not been successful, attempt to sidestep the responsibility for his failure to make good by prating over his lack of opportunities, whereas if he were to listen to that persistent something in him, known to most of us as conscience, he would soon learn that there were opportunities, numbers of them, but that he did not see them or was not enterprising enough to make use of them.

It is an indisputable fact that for every failure due to lack of opportunity, there are ten the result of too much laziness, for opportunity seldom, if ever, forces itself upon any one and never intrudes where it is an unwelcome guest. More often it dodges across the street and if you desire it, you have to go to it and get it, or it may perch upon the top rung of the ladder and whisper: "Here I am, but if you want me you have got to climb."

The great secret of finding opportunities is knowing where to look for them. A woodsman never takes his ax out on the open prairie looking for trees to fell. He generally goes straight to the woods where the timber grows, and if you will find your timber land, there you will find your trees.

Look around and see what is not being done that ought to be done, or what there is that is being done that you could do better. There is opportunity. Take a real, honest look within yourself and find wherein your own efficiency can be bettered. For there, also is opportunity.

Do not suppose that opportunity is lurking in unexpected hiding places, or that it might pop out like a goblin from behind trees in a dark forest, for it stalks abroad in full daylight. It is embodied in the things we see each day and is there waiting to be seen. The sharpest eyes shall see it first; the dullest will pass it by. It lies in a stone if that stone can be turned to a new purpose, or in a nail if that nail can be improved upon to make it more useful. It lies even in your daily tasks if your work can be made to achieve more or if you can so employ it that it becomes a stepping stone to something better.

Most of us, who are down on our luck and are still yearning for opportunity, have missed it because, with our eyes shut, we have spent our time dreaming about it, instead of looking for it with our eyes open, and it often happens that, by doing the common duty of every day, no matter in what capacity you may be employed, unconsciously well, opportunity is induced to whisper in the ear of some one higher up and you are given bigger things to do.

So don't say that you have had no opportunities until you have first learned if you have properly looked for them, or you are quite sure that you have not allowed any to slip by unnoticed. And don't say that you have no opportunity anyway, for the chances are that you are surrounded by them and if you talk that way they will hear you and say: "Come on, let's go somewhere else; this man is too lazy to look for us or he is too blind to see us. Let's hunt up a live one."

Speaking about "Not crossing the bridge, etc.," some of the most worried men of our acquaintance are those who worry about things that never will happen.

The best remedy for an attack of the swelled-head is to sit down and remember the many times one has done foolish things.

To make yourself content with what you have, just imagine how you would feel if you had lost it.

The most fortunate men in the world are those who can get paid for doing what they like to do.

What profiteth a man to stand six-feet-three in his stockings if he sits around all day.

Most things can be overdone. For instance too many appetizers spoil the appetite.

Give a fool money and he will demonstrate the Darwinian theory.

Spring is just one take-em-off-day after another.

Wasn't Necessary.

Two esteemed citizens were walking along the streets of a western town when one of the pair remarked that he was temporarily a bachelor, owing to the fact that his wife had gone on a vacation.

"I suppose," smilingly remarked the other, "that you write to her and tell her everything that you do while she is gone?"

"Oh, no," was the rather surprising response of the first; "I don't have to."

"Don't have to?" retorted the other wondering.

"D'you mean to say—"

"I mean to say," explained the first, "that the neighbors kindly attend to it for me."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING
IS THE ROAD TO ECONOMY.

Bluing, Starch and Stains.
Though the laundry may be good sized and equipped with soiled clothes chute, built-in clothes dryer for stormy weather and best of stationary tubs and other conveniences, the housewife must understand her work thoroughly else her work is wasted.

Few washerwomen know much about the chemical action of soap, starch, bluing and bleachers on textiles, so it becomes needful for mistress to be informed.

The majority of well advertised soaps are good for the purposes their makers recommend them. Some are fine and white and float firmly on the water and are to be used for laces and white goods. Others are of coarse ingredients and contain naphtha and similar solvents that make it easier to loosen the dirt in the fabric. It is very necessary to understand the properties of laundry soaps to secure snowy white results in washing.

Clothes must be rinsed sufficiently to remove every particle of soda before they enter the bluing water. Especially is this true if liquid bluing is used. The dry or ball blue is less likely to spot the clothes. Soaps that contain much alkali unite with an element in bluing that causes iron rust-colored spots to appear in the clothes when they are dried.

To blue the water tie the dry bluing in a little bag and shake it in the water until the right color. Blue the heavy pieces first; if the color is right you may then put the delicate things in.

It is a good plan to strain the liquid blues also.

Yellow linens bleach very white if they are left in blue water some hours and then are boiled in fresh clear water and blued again. Stains of iron rust caused either by careless bluing or by contact with rust may be removed with a weak solution of oxalic acid.

Starch is another article that should be of finest quality, for it is capable of making all sorts of troubles on ironing day if inferior.

In many homes the mistress insists on making the starch herself, feeling that to have it exactly right will insure proper ironing.

The directions for this are to have water boiling briskly and to dissolve the starch thoroughly in a bowl of cold water and add it to the boiling water, stirring all the time. The starch should cook not less than ten minutes, and it may cook much longer and be smoother for it. Exact proportions depend upon the thickness you want it to be. If it is well stirred when it is added to the hot water it can not lump.

Powdered moist starch will take out many fruit stains from clothes if allowed to remain on a few minutes. It removes blood stains, iodine spots and is said to be a fair silver polish when one is out of a supply of whitening.

BRYAN THREATENS ANOTHER OUTBREAK AS TO WAR PROBLEMS.

Washington, June 14.—Former Secretary of State Bryan tomorrow will issue his views upon the subject of the European war, "as it is, the causes that led to it, and the way out."

It is not known whether Mr. Bryan has anything new or official from European capitals on the subject of peace which could indicate a way to bring it about. For the past week and today—more than ever—there have been reports and rumors at the State Department and in other high administration quarters that plans of some kind are soon to find their way to the public.

Nearly every official believes that the true notes of any definite plans would be sounded first by the neutral nations of Europe, but perhaps simultaneously by the United States.

VILLA AGENT VISITS AMERICA TO KEEP IN TOUCH WITH SITUATION.

El Paso, Texas, June 14.—According to messages received this afternoon by Villa agents at Juarez, Lie Miguel Lombardo, Minister of Foreign Relations in the Villa cabinet, and author of the recent Villa note to the American government, will arrive in El Paso late tonight accompanied by George C. Carothers, special agent of the Secretary of State.

It is stated that Senor Lombardo's visit is for the purpose of keeping in close touch with Washington and studying the effect of his note on the American government.

APPRAISERS NAMED FOR THE HUGE ESTATE OF DEAD MILLIONAIRE.

New York, June 14.—The will of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who was drowned when the Lusitania sank, was today offered for probate in the surrogate court. M. F. Barger, Newport, R. I.; E. L. Rossiter, Greenwich, Conn.; and Roy B. Gaffler, Plandome, L. I., are the three witnesses. They were examined and testified that the will was executed in the regular manner in conformity with the statutes.

Appraisers will be appointed to begin the work of estimating the value of the $35,000,000 estate for taxation.

There's a fortune and a gold medal awaiting the first genius in a suburban community who starts a jitney lawn-mower service.

A WORD WITH WOMEN

Valuable Advice for Mayville Readers.

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed, such aches and pains follow.

You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediment; the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone.

Don't's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Mayville woman's convincing statement:

"Mrs. Dora McFord, Mayville, Ky., says: 'I had been feeling poorly for some time, before I knew that my kidneys were at fault. I was nervous and dizzy many times and head ached. I rested poorly and mornings I was all tired out. I read in a local paper how a neighbor had been cured of kidney trouble by Don's Kidney Pills. I used them and before long I was a great deal better. I was able to sleep well and they improved my health.'

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Don's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. McFord had. Foster-McBarn Co., Prop., Buffalo, N. Y.

LOVES OF GREAT AMERICANS.

Edgar Allen Poe and His "Child-Wife."

"Her eyes outshone those of any hour, and her features would defy the genius of a Canova to imitate." He was graceful and with dark, curling hair and magnificent eyes—the kind of man whom men calumniate and envy and women adore," writes a chronicler of two generations ago.

She was Virginia Clemm, a child fated to grief and final tragedy. He was Edgar Allen Poe, son of immortal fire caged in a too-weak body. Their love story is one of the most pathetic in the long annals of hearts.

Poe was the son of strolling actors, who died when he was a baby. He was adopted by a wealthy tobacco merchant in Richmond, who did not at all understand the genius-ridden boy. Poe went to the University of Virginia, but was forced to leave. Then he went to West Point, and was expelled. After which the Allans practically kicked him out of their home and his other relatives snubbed the lonely youth unmercifully. All but one of them. That one was Mrs. Maria Clemm, his father's widowed sister. She welcomed her outcast nephew with open arms to her Baltimore home. It was almost the first real kindness Poe had ever known.

Mrs. Clemm had one daughter—Virginia. The little girl was not over eleven, but (writes a friend of hers) "she retained to the last all the shy sweetness and simplicity of a child." In fact, she was a child when Poe first met her. He was twenty-seven; she was but thirteen. Yet almost at once—and all unconsciously, they fell in love with each other. Girls matured more early three-quarters of a century ago than now. Here is Poe's account of what followed the discovery of their mutual love:

"We spoke no words during the rest of that sweet day. And our words, even on the morrow, were tremulous and few."

Poe had long since begun his losing fight for literary success; and soon after his engagement to Virginia he was called to Richmond to take the assistant editorship of a magazine there. He left Baltimore to embark on his new duties. But in a month or two Mrs. Clemm wrote him that Virginia was "pining away because of his absence." He hurried back to Baltimore. There, on September 22, 1835, he and Virginia were secretly married, and Poe returned to Richmond to earn enough money to support his thirteen-year-old wife.

Soon Virginia and her mother followed him thither, and in May, 1836, Poe and Virginia were married again—this time publicly. Then began eleven years of poverty and heartbreak.

Poe was one of the most transparent poetical geniuses the world has ever known. He was also one of the most brilliant story writers and critics. But he had not the trick of erasing to people who could be of use to him, or even of being moderately civil to them. Though personally he was gentle and lovable, yet his criticisms sometimes burned like vitriol. The writers whom he criticized and the editors whom he affronted grew quickly to hate him. At times he was practically "blacklisted" in nearly every editorial office in America.

Also Poe had not the head to stand liquor. One glass of light wine was enough to make him hopelessly drunk. His fascination for all women was another count against him. And word went forth that he was a drunkard and a libertine. (This narrow, assinine prejudice against him was still so strong as recently as 1900 that he was denied a niche in the Hall of Fame, although several men whose name the public scarcely knew were unanimously chosen to that more or less immortal group. For ten years Poe was barred out to the wondering delusion of the whole modern literary world.)

From place to place drifted Poe and Virginia, always miserably poor, often on the verge of starvation. To the end they were devoted lovers. Virginia could not in the least appreciate her husband's genius. But she loved to sit close to him when he wrote, and to keep his pens in order and fold and address his manuscripts. It was all she could do to help him in his work. Nor was she jealous of the many women who made fools of themselves over him. To complete their hardships, Virginia's health failed. She became a consumptive.

After many wretched wanderings the couple settled in a hovel-like cottage at Fordham—which was then a country village and not a part of New York city. At the Fordham cottage Virginia grew weaker and weaker. Her frantic husband sought work in order to make her last days easy. But nearly every door was closed against him.

Water set in—a bitter win. Virginia could no longer sit up, but lay all day on a straw matress covered with her husband's cloak—and for greater warmth—clapping to her aching chest her huge tortoiseshell cat, Catalina. Poe spent every minute he could spare from his desk in rubbing the death chill from her hands and feet and in trying to make her think she would get well. There was no money to buy fuel, food or medicine. And the Poes were not only too proud to accept charity, but to let the neighbors know in what dire poverty they were living.

On January 3, 1847, Virginia died. And with his child-wife died all that was youthful and buoyant in Poe's own heart. Real Annabel Lee, the poem inspired by Virginia's death, if you would learn how he mourned her. To a friend, soon afterward, he wrote:

"I loved her as man never loved before. I loved her more and more dearly during the years of her illness, until I became insane—with intervals of horrible sanity."

How could she die—and of consumption? But it is a path I have prayed to follow. I would wish that all whom I love might perish of that gentle disease. . . . I see no one among the living as beautiful as my sweet little wife."

MEXICO HOLDS THE CENTER OF STAGE AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, June 14.—The menace of the Mexican situation was intensified today by the receipt of news that General Rosendo Hernandez, one of Villa's generals, had held up Red Cross supplies destined for the town of Monclova and its vicinity where many Mexicans are said to be starving. The effect of this attitude persisted in by the Villa party would be to force the President's hand and compel him to take steps to provide for the safe conduct of the Red Cross to their various destinations in Mexico.

On top of the news that the supplies had been held up the State Department received General Villa's reply to President Wilson's recent announcement regarding the situation in Mexico with a copy of a message he has sent to General Carranza suggesting that they discuss a plan for the reorganization of the government.

EPWORTH LEAGUE BANQUET

At Third Street M. E. Church Monday Night Enjoyable Affair

One of the most delightful occasions given in a long time in church circles was the banquet given by the "Stars" of the Epworth League of the Third Street M. E. church to the "Swastikas." For several years this young peoples' organization has enjoyed an unusually healthful growth. Among other things that have contributed to this growth has been a friendly contest each year, running from the first Sunday in September until League anniversary day, which falls on the Sunday nearest to the fifteenth of May. Last September the society, which numbers over 100 members, was divided into two sides, taking the names of "Stars" and "Swastikas." Mr. Walter Nauman was captain of the "Stars," and Mr. William E. Smith was captain of the "Swastikas." Points were based on attendance at the various meetings, on memorizing Bible verses, subscriptions to the Epworth Herald and contributions to various benevolent causes. Every member entered enthusiastically into the contest, and one of the most successful years of the League's life has just closed. The two sides were "neck and neck" for nearly the whole time but gradually in the last few weeks the "Swastikas" forged ahead until they won out with a margin of nearly 150 points to spare. And so, Monday evening, according to agreement, the losing "Stars" entertained the winners. The committee had the room most tastefully decorated with colored paper cut in the shape of stars and swastikas. Then the program was carried out in a manner as to make it doubly delightful to all. First all sang heartily, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," during the singing of which all present shook hands with the two captains. Then followed a duet by Messrs. Frank Nash and Ray Muse. Speechmaking was then in order. Mr. Nauman led off with a talk on "How It Happened." This was responded to by Mrs. Smith for Mr. Smith, on "How I Got the Votes."

Then followed talks by Miss Hurd on "Contests—How They Have Helped Our League. A Look into the Future." Frank Nash on "Why the 'Stars' Lost." Mr. Lane on "How a Young-Old Man Enjoyed the Contest." Mr. Walsh on "Oh, How Hungry I Am."

The pastor, Rev. J. M. Lital, then in a unique little speech, presented Mr. Smith with an immense strawberry short-cake made in the shape of a swastika. Following the presentation of the short-cake, the "Star" waiters passed boxes of popcorn to the rest of the crowd, causing them to wonder if that was the way they were to be banqueted. The next course to be served by the young ladies was "toothpicks." In order to keep them in suspense, the social vice president, Miss Carrie Muse, then read the June number of the League's Loganians Literary Ledger, which, as usual, was greatly enjoyed. It was at this juncture that Mr. Walsh made his speech on "Oh, How Hungry I Am." Then came the climax of the banquet. Those pretty "Star" waiters came from that mysterious room where the good things are kept bearing the delicious ices and cakes that were to be the real treat of the evening. The ices, in brick form, each had a star molded upon it, and each cake had a swastika upon it. One can imagine how delighted that crowd of young folks were. The "Stars" were delighted to be the entertainers and the "Swastikas" delighted to be entertained, so all were as happy as could be. All agreed that it was the best contest and the best banquet of all that have been given, and all are ready for another contest next year.

Philadelphus, Pa.—"I am offered from displacement and inflammation, and had such pains in my sides, and terrible headache so that I could hardly stand. I took six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I can do any amount of work, sleep good, eat good, and don't have a bit of trouble. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to every suffering woman."—Mrs. HARRY FISHER, 1625 Doughton St., Nicetown, Pa.

Another Woman's Case. Providence, R. I.—"I cannot speak too highly of your Vegetable Compound as it has done wonders for me and I would not be without it. I had a displacement, bearing down, and backache, until I could hardly stand and was thoroughly run down when I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped me and I am in the best of health at present. I work in a factory all day long besides doing my housework so you can see what it has done for me. I give you permission to publish my name and I speak of your Vegetable Compound to many of my friends."—Mrs. ANNE LAWSON, 125 Lippitt St., Providence, R. I.

Danger Signals to Women are what one physician called backache, headache, nervousness, and the blues. In many cases they are symptoms of some female derangement or an inflammatory, ulcerative condition, which may be overcome by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands of American women willingly testify to its virtue.

Telegraphers are becoming more and more needed in the British army and correspondingly hard to get. The war office demanded twenty expert men a few days ago. The employers of these men refused to give them up, saying that they had let so many of their employees go as almost to paralyze their business. "Victory first," was the reply of the war office and Kitchener sent an officer to select the twenty men he wished.

The Coffee Drug

Do you know what it is?

It's caffeine—a poisonous and powerful nerve irritant about 2½ grains to the cup of coffee.

Listen to what physicians say:

"Coffee and tea are poisonous drugs. The caffeine they contain is of the same nature as uric acid. They impair digestion and produce various disorders of the nerves."

UNITED PARTY MEETS

Republicans Present Solid Front To Face At Lexington Meeting.

Lexington, June 16.—A united, harmonious and confident Republican party, represented by more than 1,500 delegates from all parts of the old commonwealth, assembled at the Ben All theater Tuesday afternoon, charged with the important duty of formulating a party platform that is expected to spell victory for the Republicans state ticket this fall and to redeem Kentucky from Democratic misrule and extravagance.

As an evidence of the good feeling prevailing among the delegates old line Republicans and Progressives, who were divided in 1912, are nestled side by side, and wets and dries are hobnobbing, fraternizing together like brothers, all of which augurs well for peace and harmony.

Nearly an hour before the convention was called to order, delegates began streaming into the convention hall. As they arrived they were assigned to their respective district reservations, designated by numerical standards.

The delegations from the Fourth, Fifth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh districts were seated on the first floor, while the balcony was filled with the delegations from the Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and scattering delegates from other districts.

On the platform were seated many of the prominent party leaders. The boxes were occupied by a number of ladies and citizens as spectators.

PRETTY NUPTIALS TODAY.

This afternoon, Miss Mamie Catherine Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perkins, of Woodlawn, in the county, will be united in marriage to Mr. Ira McCann Wallingford, of Louisville. The ring ceremony will be read by Rev. T. S. Ellis, of the Baptist church, Lewisburg. Miss Perkins will be gowned in a silk frock with lace trimming, white veil entwined with lilacs of the valley, and will carry a bride's bouquet of bride roses. The groom will wear the conventional black. Mrs. Lottie Lee, of Maysville, will be the bridesmaid, and Mr. Harry Wallingford, of Louisville, will be the attendant of the groom. After the ceremony the happy couple will leave for an extended bridal trip through the northeast.

"WHY PRAY?"

The general topic of the Christian church prayermeeting tonight is "Why Should I Pray?" Those who can attend should do so, at 7:30.

DAM NOTES

Happenings About Lock Dam No. 33, Above This City.

The work on Lock Dam No. 33, above this city, is being resumed after a two weeks' delay caused by the high stage of the river.

Two dinky engines, No. 11 and No. 12, have arrived at the dam and will be used in conveying tools and other materials to points on the works.

A complete railway is being built on the cofferdam, with switches, Y's and trestles.

A pump boat with a capacity of twelve gallons of water to each stroke, and 160 strokes a minute, or a total of 5,760 gallons per minute, has been installed and several other pump boats of this type will be added before the real work on pumping the big cofferdam dry can be accomplished.

Sand in large quantities is being dumped into the inside of the cofferdam to strengthen it against the immense pressure.

All but about 125 feet of the cofferdam is completed and work on this is being rushed to completion. This would have been finished sooner, but for the high stage of the river.

The C. & O. railroad has installed a spur down the bank to the cofferdam and now material will be unloaded at the very spot it is wanted. This spur makes about two miles of railroad track in and about the works at the dam.

A large hoisting crane ran off the track at the dam Tuesday, but was soon placed in position again by its own power. In fact, it lifted itself back on the track.

CHAUTAUQUA ANNOUNCEMENT.

According to the official program of the Maysville Chautauqua, July 1 to July 7, H. C. Hoefner is to be superintendent, Dr. T. A. Mills, of Battle Creek, Mich., morning hour lecturer, and Miss Mary C. Paulin, children's worker.

For twelve years Mr. Hoefner was in the banking business in his home city in northern Ohio, and his interest in civic affairs is shown by the fact that he was a member of the Board of Education and for three years president of the Commercial Club. His experience in chautauqua work extends over several seasons and he is considered one of the most competent superintendents with the Redpath Company.

"Great Messages from Great Plays" will be the general subject of the series of lectures to be given by Dr. Mills. He will take up Zangwill's "The Melting Pot," and also "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," "The Case of Becky" and "Jean Valjean." He has an afternoon colloquy, "Fiddles and Fortunes." Dr. Mills is minister of the Congregational church of Battle Creek, Mich.

Special prominence will be given this season to children's work. Miss Paulin will arrive on the second day of the chautauqua and her program calls for a series of Indian, Russian, Scandinavian, German, Japanese and English folk tales and dances, as well as daily singing games and games of action. On the fourth or fifth day she will appear before the afternoon audience for a lesson on the art of story-telling.

The 1915 chautauqua program, with such features as Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, Strickland Gillilan, the Great Players, Dr. Herbert L. Willett, Packard the cartoonist, Ferullo's Band, Attorney General Barker of Missouri, Harry F. Atwood, Chaplain O. L. Kiplinger and Marcus A. Kellerman, dramatic baritone, is a worthy of the enthusiastic support which it is sure to receive in Maysville.

CLASS POEM.

Our happy school days now are o'er,
We know no better than this,
That you are saying, "For no more
Will greet each other in these halls,
Nor in the class rooms will we see again
The forms of those that we have learned to love.
Another class will take our place.
We go
To make men and women of the future. Now there are some
Will make the statesmen; and others
Tradesmen; and each will have a call
To something useful in this world, where they Stay but a little while. But while they're here
May each and every one do some small thing
To make this land of ours foremost of those
That lie upon the earth.
When we were young, a thought to each of us
Came like the robin in the spring:
"Why should I study now? There's time
For me to learn when I am older."
But now we sadly shake our heads
and say:
"Why wasted I those golden minutes
then?
I should then to some better use have put Than idleness." Then with regret comes joy.
Those wasted moments, should they come again,
They would be put to the same use.
For which they were once used."
So we, with sadness in our hearts,
Do take departure.

—SLYE, 1915.

GAVE BAND CONCERT.

The Marine Band, of twenty pieces, of the Rice & Dore circus, that showed at the river front Tuesday, gave a very delightful concert on the corner of Market and Second streets. A large crowd of bystanders was present and all were of the opinion that it was one of the best musical organizations that has come to this city for some time.

Oscar A. Hockett, aged 31, and Mary J. Roberts, aged 21, both of this city, were granted a marriage license Tuesday by County Clerk James Owens.

Model 83 f. o. b. Toledo

THE NEWEST OVERLAND---$325 LESS THAN LAST YEAR

The 1916 Overland is essentially the same as the 1915 Overland—the famous Model 80 that sold for $1,075. But the price is $325 less.

The stream-line body is the same as the $1,075 Model of last season.

It has the same magnificent finish; that deep, rich tone of dark brewster green with fine hairline striping of clear ivory-white.

It has the same powerful, economical 35 horse-power, four-cylinder motor, but weighs less.

It has high-tension magneto ignition.

It has the same underslung rear springs. It has the convenient arrangement of electric control buttons on the steering column.

It has the same easy-working clutch which any woman can operate; the same "easy to handle" shifting levers; the same "easy to steer with" wheel; the same positive brakes.

It has 33-inch X 4-inch tires, which is unusual on a car at this price.

In detail, finish, mechanical fineness, comforts and conveniences, this newest Overland gives you all there was in the $1,075 Overland and even more power.

And it costs you but $750—$325 less than last season's large 35 horse-power Overland.

Deliveries are being made now all over the country. Every Overland dealer already has a waiting list. Place your order immediately and you can be sure of a speedy delivery.
